Travis is a Partner in PwC's National Tax Services office and its Exempt Organization Tax Services practice. For nearly 20 years, Travis has provided tax services to exempt organizations focused on healthcare, higher education, museums, and foundations.

Travis is resident in Washington, D.C., where he monitors legislative and regulatory developments from Capitol Hill and the Internal Revenue Service. He advises clients on IRS examinations, governance, compensation and benefits, unrelated business income tax, hospital community benefit and charity care, 501(r) compliance, mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, international activities, Form 990, and other topics.

A regular instructor, Travis most recently presented at conferences sponsored by the Georgetown University Law Center, National Association of College and University Business Officers, and Washington Nonprofit Legal and Tax Conference. Travis has authored articles published in Thomson Reuters's Taxation of Exempts, HFMA's magazine Healthcare Financial Management, and the AICPA's Journal of Accountancy.

Travis is a Certified Public Accountant licensed in Virginia and the District of Columbia, and he is a member of the AICPA. He holds a BBA in Accounting from the College of William and Mary and a MS in Taxation from American University.

Travis is a Board member and Treasurer at Whitman Walker Health, a Federally Qualified Health Center, and is a member of The College of William and Mary Mason School of Business Accounting Program Advisory Board.
